I had the pleasure to have Dr. Ceberio as my professor for Intro to Computer Science. Dr. Ceberio performed an excellent job. She was consistently helping students to learn more about Computer Science, not only inside the classroom but outside campus. She steadily provided us with information about different growing opportunities, such as conferences, meetings, clubs, internships and research.

Dr. Ceberio is a role model for me, an inspiration in my life. Dr. Ceberio demonstrated that she is willing to go beyond the call of duty for her students, she takes her teaching position very seriously. I admire her because she is a hardworking person and a motivator, she constantly encourages her students to achieve their goals and learn more about themselves and their peers. She persistently challenged me to become a better version of myself, which ultimately helped me grow as a person and as a professional.

Dr. Ceberio always made an effort to accommodate for me and others. Even if it complicated her schedule, she would invariably make time for me whenever I needed help with an assignment or advising. Dr. Ceberio is a very knowledgeable and intelligent person, but most importantly she is willing to share that knowledge with her students and peers. She served as my advisor for the Association of Computing Machinery Council on Woman (ACM-W) and Google's Ignite CS associations. I believe she performed her role excellently, with the patience and encouragement necessary to help others succeed. I especially admire all the effort she makes prompting women involvement and success in Computer Science and its related fields. The advice she provided helped define my career and future.

Beyond that, Dr. Ceberio gave me the opportunity to be part of her research during the Spring 2017 semester. This experience helped me discover and learn about different Computer Science fields. She was there to guide me when I was stuck and push me forward when necessary. What I really like about Dr. Ceberio is that she truly believes in the potential in each and every one of her students, and is willing to help them achieve it.

In conclusion, I have no doubt that Dr. Ceberio is a very outstanding and encouraging person. Dr. Ceberio is an inspiration, not only for me but for many other students at this university. The support and care that she provides for her students is bar none. Her influence is present both in her students and the CS department as a whole. Truly a role model, Dr. Ceberio is one of the best professors this department has to offer.
